YouTube Link:
https://youtu.be/8Of4QTWbtvk?si=_BGY21GM8kd3-Ayv

Email:

Hi everyone,

Good day!

I am inviting you to our group meeting for the roleplay activity. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss our concept, assign roles, and practice our Raffy Tulfo-style roleplay about a teacher reporting a student for allegedly using ChatGPT in their thesis.

Date: February 23 2026 (can be changed if not available)
Time: 9:00 - 11:00PM (can be changed)
Google Meet Link: https://meet.google.com/mvk-hpod-aby

Agenda:
• Discuss the roleplay concept and flow
• Assign and confirm roles
• Practice the main parts of the skit
• Prepare for the recording

Please try to join on time so we can start the meeting smoothly. If you have any concerns or schedule conflicts, kindly inform the group ahead of time.

Thank you and see you all at the meeting!

Best regards,
Pauleen Eunice P. Bitanga
Group Leader

Group Reflection

Our group planned the meeting by first discussing our idea through our group chat. We agreed to create a Raffy Tulfo–style roleplay about a teacher complaining that a student used ChatGPT for their thesis. As the group leader, I sent an invitation email with the meeting details and the Google Meet link so everyone would know the time and purpose of the meeting. During the meeting, we discussed the flow of the roleplay, assigned roles, and practiced some parts so we could understand how the conversation would go.
One of the main challenges we encountered was that one of our group members were unable to attend due to unforeseen circumstances. Because of this, we had to adjust our plan and redistribute the roles among the remaining members. It was also a bit challenging to coordinate everyone's schedules and maintain a smooth discussion online.
Despite these challenges, we learned that online collaboration requires clear communication, flexibility, and teamwork. Even though we were not physically together, we were still able to share ideas, make decisions, and work toward completing our roleplay effectively.